Did You Know: Most American car horns honk in the key of F.

Did You Know: That it is illegal to eat fried chicken in Georgia with a fork?

Did You Know: The first U.S. toll roads opened in PA and CT in 1872.

Did You Know: The name Wendy wasn't popular until it was used as a character name in the 1904 book "Peter Pan."

The 1902 999 Speedster

The 999 was named after a New York Central Railway train that set records in 1893. On October 25, 1902, Barney Oldfield drove the 999 wide open and defeated Alexander Winton, W.C. Bucknam, and Charles Shanks at the Grosse Pointe racetrack in Michigan. The spectators went wild at his time of 5 minutes, 28 seconds - an American record.

The car was constructed in 1902 and was designed by Henry Ford. It is powered by an inline, 4-cylinder, 18.8-liter (1155.3 cubic-inch) engine developing approximately 70-horsepower. It cost $5,000, a considerable sum in 1902.

This is actually an exact replica of the original 999. The Ford Motor Company commissioned it for the 1966 World's Fair. The original is on display at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, MI, and this replica is kept at the Motorsports Hall of Fame at America Museum in Novi, MI.

This Month's Program!

I'm not sure what the monthly program as Mr. Joe Pinnelli has not given me the list.
